

Guided Inquiry

Learning in the 21st Century

By Carol Kuhlthau, Ann K. Caspari, and Leslie K. Maniotes

Noted researcher Kuhlthau has teamed up with a curriculum specialist and museum educator to create this foundational text on Guided Inquiry, a dynamic, integrated approach to teaching curriculum content, information literacy, and strategies for learning. Grounded in Kuhlthau's Information Search Process from her classic text Seeking Meaning and built on solid professional practice, this innovative team approach inspires students to gain deeper understandings and higher order thinking using the rich resources of the school library, the community and the wider world. This book provides the vital tools for educators to create collaborative environments where students experience school learning and real life meshed in integral ways - learning in the 21st century.

CAROL C. KUHLTHAU is a Professor Emerita of Library and Information Science at Rutgers University, where she directed the graduate program in school librarianship that has been rated number one in the country by U.S. News. ANN K. CASPARI is the Senior Museum Educator for the Smithsonian Early Enrichment Center. LESLIE K. MANIOTES is a classroom teacher, with a Ph.D. in instructional curriculum
